Dear Alumni, Parents and Friends,

We continue to be in very high demand by parents and students as a first choice for a public high school education in East Central Illinois. This last admissions cycle produced many more highly qualified students than we are able to accept.

Because of our highly credentialed teachers and very talented students, the Washington Post has once again included Uni High among the country's "Top-performing schools with elite students."

We are very excited about the progress we have made on the prototype classroom renovations we began in the fall of 2014. All of this has been funded by gifts and pledges made for the Innovations in Learning initiative.

By the beginning of the spring semester 2015, we had:

- Replaced opaque window shades with custom made (by campus facilities and services) window shades that reduce glare and at the same time allow students and teachers to enjoy seeing outside. Teachers commented on the unexpected positive effect it had on their mood and the calming effect it seemed to have on students.
- Installed two Momentum Boards that include a whiteboard with an expandable arm, allowing it to be used in varied spots in the room. The whiteboard is capable of smartboard technology when used with the short-throw projector. Smartboard technology allows the user to manipulate a large computer screen by touch. Students may project easily their laptop computer screen on a Smartboard to display to the class as a whole. Momentum Boards also feature smaller whiteboards, and pin boards on a rail system allowing the boards to be moved to a small group and then back up for presenting.
- Refurbished the original built-in bookshelves.
- Moved in new desks and chairs made to easily and quietly move into many arrangements including a full circle, groups of two, four or six and the traditional rows facing in one direction.
- This general purpose classroom was used in the spring semester for teaching English and Math. All teachers have been trained to use the technology in the classroom.

Rendering of completed 106 N.

This summer the asbestos flooring was removed as well as the old radiator and the damaged plaster walls behind the radiator. An A/C system was installed on the ceiling and will be connected to the campus chiller grid—yes that's right—real air conditioning will be available without loud window units. The new radiators will be unobtrusive, attractive and quiet.

By spring semester 2016 we expect a dropped ceiling to be installed to cover the AC system. Dimmable LED lighting will replace the old fixtures. Now external conduit will be hidden by new drywall and carpet will be installed. Old window sills will be replaced with charging shelves for students' and teachers' devices.

A photo of work in progress and a color rendering of the envisioned finished space are displayed in this Annual Report. We will be inviting you to a small gathering of donors to the Innovations in Learning initiative to be one of the first to see the completed classroom.

I hope you are as excited as we are about this progress. We are very grateful for your support. Sincerely yours,

*Jeff Walkington, Ph.D.
Director*

Uni High Gala Honors Philip Anderson, Nobel Laureate

by Carol Lombardi

Uni's annual Gala was dedicated this year to honoring Uni alum and Nobel Laureate Philip Anderson, along with outstanding alumni who were awarded the science prize named in his honor.

Anderson appeared via video at the April event, and he recognized 30 years of outstanding science students who won the award named in his honor. Uni chemistry teacher Dave Bergandine helped coordinate the return of so many of our outstanding alumni.

Anderson grew up in Urbana and graduated from Uni High in 1940 and was awarded the 1977 Nobel Prize in Physics for his investigations into the electronic structure of magnetic and disordered systems, which allowed for the development of electronic switching and memory devices in computers.

The gala is held annually to recognize those who contribute to Uni's continued success, and this year focused on Uni's Innovations in Learning campaign. The Innovations in Learning project is renovating and building spaces at Uni that will promote investigation, creativity, interaction and exchange using existing, new and emerging technologies. These spaces promote active learning and pedagogical exploration, which are cornerstones of a Uni education.

Uni Students Pursue Fine Arts

by Carol Lombardi

Uni students continued our strong tradition of Fine Arts participation both in and out of school this year.

In music, Uni had a successful showing at the Illinois Music Educators Association District Conference, with eight students moving on to the All-State Conference.

An ever-increasing number of students are participating in Uni's chorus and orchestra programs, and the Madrigals and both jazz bands remain popular choices as well.

The Uni Theater Department put on "The Mouse that Roared" in the fall. The traditional spring musical was "The Sound of Music." A fifth performance was added to accommodate sell-out crowds as Uni's reputation for excellence in theater continues to spread.

In Art, four students were honored this year at the Insect Fear Film Festival art contests at the University of Illinois. Uni students also excelled in other local art and photography contests. The skills and enthusiasm instilled by our outstanding faculty encourages Uni students to carry their passion for the arts into the larger community as well. Uni students have collaborated with teens from other schools to start a local youth orchestra, our students are regularly featured in community theater and dance productions and they are often standouts in local visual arts events.

Top: Uni's chorus continues to gain popularity, along with Madrigals, orchestra and jazz band.

Bottom: Uni's annual celebration of arts takes place each spring. Students in visual arts, music and theater have a place to showcase their work and talents for peers, faculty, families and the community.

Uni Athletes Reach New Heights

by Carol Lombardi

From subbies to seniors, Uni athletes performed well this year. Swimming, cross-country, track and field and boys and girls basketball teams sent competitors to the state championships. Uni students regularly made appearances on All-Area and All-State teams and Athlete of the Year lists.

Uni is always reaching to new heights, and this year that included a trip to Alaska for some of our girls basketball players to compete in a tournament there, and the addition of tennis as an official school sport.

Our diverse group of students also excel outside of the traditional school sports. We have outstanding students in golf, dance, figure skating and martial arts who juggle their Uni responsibilities with their passion for their sports, as well as students in our traditional sports who pursue excellence outside of school all year.

Our athletes' commitment goes beyond the courts and the pools. Many athletes help each year with the Coaches vs. Cancer fundraiser, which is donated to care for cancer patients. This year Uni raised $1,000 to donate to the cause. Most of our athletes also participate in cleaning up after the annual Illinois Marathon, bringing along family, friend and neighbors to make a significant impact on this important local event.

Opposite Top: The girls cross country team came in as state runner-up in Class 1A.

Opposite Right: Uni's boys basketball programs are experiencing greatness. This year they won the ECIC tournament championship.

Top: Members of Uni's swim team, Lauren Monahan '17, Claire Michael '15 (now swimming @ Illinois Wesleyan) and Maddie Nelson '16, celebrate a successful season, including winning sectionals.

Bottom: The girls basketball team won the ECIC regular conference championship with a 5-0 record.

Beberman Award Acceptance Speech

by W. Ford Doolittle

Marianne informed me that I have a maximum of eight minutes to express my gratitude for receiving this award. Eight minutes is too long just to say thank you and not long enough to allow me to indulge in extensive reminiscence. So what I decided to do is give eight of the reasons why I am so grateful to be invited back to Uni High, most having to do with causing me to “remember when”. One per minute – that’s my plan.

Reason #1. The chance to remember my own graduation.

It was 56 years ago that I went through my own graduation, and I am most grateful for the opportunity to think back that far. I asked Marianne to send me the program from that 1959 ceremony, and I am ashamed to say I remember very little of it. I do remember being nervous then, as I am now – some things we never get over. I also remember the enormous feeling of accomplishment that we all shared: Uni High was then – and I am sure that it is now – a very intellectually challenging environment. We knew that we had all learned a lot and felt well prepared intellectually to go on, many of us to pretty prestigious colleges.

Reason #2. The opportunity to honor Max Beberman. I am probably one of the very few people here that remembers “Mr. Beberman”. An inspiring and large man, in all dimensions. He taught me in a class or two in the “new math”, which was then indeed new. Uni High was a laboratory school and we were the guinea pigs. For most of us this worked out very well – we ranked very highly in the standardized math tests run by the state. Even I ranked pretty highly, as I recall, though that would certainly surprise some of my colleagues upon whose math skills I rely heavily these days.

Reason #3. A chance to think about what I really learned here. Which was, I believe, primarily to write. My favorite thing was to prepare what I think we called “research reports”. Going to the library – the university library was my favorite place to hang out – to dig up information in the pre-Google era, synthesizing it and trying to express this synthesis cleanly. We did a lot of that and basically that is pretty much all I have done since. I think that what actually distinguishes scientists – unless they are lucky enough to stumble across something completely unexpected – is how persuasively they can write about whatever they do discover, even when it is not earthshaking.

Reason #4. The chance to remember my classmate and friend Will Spiegelman. It was Will who steered me in the direction of science, specifically molecular biology, by arranging me a summer job with his dad, Sol Spiegelman, one off the discoverers of messenger RNA and a very charismatic individual, who surely should have received a Nobel Prize. I worked in Sol’s lab over in Burrill Hall for several hot Urbana summers and found it to be the most exciting place imaginable – I still recall the atmosphere of wonder and discovery and friendly but deadly serious

Max Beberman Distinguished Alumni Award

The Beberman Award was established in honor of the late Max Beberman, whose distinguished career as a math educator brought him international renown. During his tenure at University Laboratory High School from 1950 to 1971, he founded and developed the University of Illinois Committee on School Mathematics (UICSM), which significantly altered the teaching of mathematics around the world. Max is remembered as being a fantastic teacher whose forte was enabling students to discover for themselves the new math ideas for which he is famous.

competition. I came to believe that understanding the universe and our place in it is our species' first and most important spiritual task and moral obligation – and I still think that.

Reason #5. To remember the most important decision I made. Which was to leave the comfort and security of Urbana and go off to Harvard. Uni High was intellectually challenging in the extreme, but also supportive and comfortable in a way that much of the world, even academia, is not. I think I knew this, and so was apprehensive about leaving home, and like many of us (and you) who effectively skipped a grade, perhaps a bit too young for an easy transition. Very glad I made it, nevertheless.

Reason #6. Mentors. The rest of my reasons for being grateful aren't specifically to do with Uni High, but without the superb intellectual preparation we received here, would not have been possible. I had tremendous mentors – Sol Spiegelman here in Urbana, Pap Pappenheimer at Harvard, Charley Yanofsky at Stanford and Norm Pace in Colorado. From each of them I learned a different lesson – and as so often happens, the value of those lessons didn't become apparent until later in life.

Reason #7. Students. At Dalhousie I found an environment just as comfortable and supportive as Uni High. What challenged me was my own students and postdoctoral fellows. I have been blessed with an amazing collection of bright and dedicated people. I think that evolutionary biology, because it has no immediate practical “deliverables”, attracts those whose motivations are purely intellectual. For those of you who become academic scientists, I'd say that the most important thing you can do is establish a laboratory culture in which being there nights and weekends is what your people want to do, not what they feel they have to do. To the extent I was successful in doing that, I recreated in Halifax the atmosphere of Sol Spiegelman's lab in Burrill Hall.

Reason #8. I am most grateful for when I was born and where I have been. I think that the rate at which biology has progressed in the last 70 years, roughly since Watson and Crick's 1953 proposal of a structure for DNA, has been the most astonishing period in the history of any science at any time. I am so fortunate that I lived during this period and that for much of it I was reasonably close to where the action has been, and even played a small part in it. This all started at Uni High, in the habits of mind I acquired in this unique and wonderful environment.

So those are my eight reasons in eight minutes for gratitude in receiving this award. Thank you and good luck.

Above the arch is a decorative balcony with a stone railing and two large, ornate urns. The building is made of light-colored stone, and the scene is brightly lit, casting shadows on the ground.

FISCAL YEAR 2015

July 1, 2014–June 30, 2015

Private gifts from current parents, alumni, alumni parents, and friends as well as grants from foundations represented 25% of the school's resources during the 2014-2015 school-year.

More than 66% of our current parents made a gift to the school in 2014-2015. Current families increased their giving to the Parent Fund 42% this year. Alumni support is growing too! The Annual Fund, supported by alumni and alumni parents, increased by 39%. In 2014-2015, more than $245,000 was pledged in support of the Innovations in Learning initiative to renovate and create active learning classrooms. Alumni also documented a total of $425,000 in deferred gifts through their estate plans.
